FACELESS BALLOON

Magic item
Rare

The faceless balloon is not so devoid of a face as the name would make you assume. In fact, it does have a face - yours.

Once a faceless balloon is filled with air, its surface morphs into the face of the being closest to it. From then on, it constantly follows the creature, no matter where in the world they are. Once nearby, the faceless balloon gets more aggressive and tries to latch onto the creature's neck and fly up into the sky with them, essentially suffocating them.

A faceless balloon who's target has been killed otherwise, becomes faceless again until it is close enough to another living creature who's face it can assume.

A faceless balloon that successfully suffocated its target starts to deflate after about 7 days in the sky and becomes usable again after its face became unrecognizable.
